Media Release „Blues Horror Brigade – Bubbles“

The extraterrestrial Blues Horror Brigade is back on Earth ...!!! Because of a monkey ...!

On 11-10-10 the new Blues Horror Brigade single "Bubbles" is released. With this song the extraterrestrial rock group tries to overcome the trauma of its search for a missing monkey. Another odyssey of the space travelers. For several million years ago the four aliens have been on a quest through the universe. Lee Horn Ogx, Endo Plast, Hells Man E and Sparklemaster One met each other in a therapeutic music group in a mental hospital on the edge of the cosmos. Their shrinks declared them as completely incurable and released them at their own risk. Since then they are on tour.

For a few hundred thousand years they have been visiting Earth. Some scientists claim the Blues Horror Brigade had wild sex with a pack of female apes while being on a strange drug. The result was the creation of Homo Sapiens. It is a fact that the four aliens regard apes as their ultimate fetish.

As musicians their task is to influence each planet they are visiting with their compositions. On Earth they have influenced several major musicians and composers by using telepathic powers. Just to name a few: Carl Philipp Emanuel Bach (son of Johann Sebastian Bach), Igor Stravinsky, John Cage, John Lennon & Paul McCartney, The Residents, Sex Pistols, Hawkwind, Pink Floyd, Iron Maiden, Slayer, Céline Dion, Sun Ra Arkestra, Frank Sinatra, Lady Gaga, Heino, and of course Michael Jackson. When they heard about the death of Jackson an outcry burst through the spacecraft of the four aliens. Not because of the death of the King of Pop, but because of the question: What happens to his monkey, the chimpanzee "Bubbles"?

Immediately the Blues Horror Brigade set on a search for the monkey. "Bubbles, where are you?" Sparklemaster One sang, while Endo Plast let his organs howl. Lee Ogx horn blew into the guitar and Hells Man E rubbed himself on the drums. With their song they tried to attract the missing ape. However they were just offered a fake, which can be adopted for $ 10,000 for one year. The real "Bubbles" was and remains missing. Hope persists. That's why the song "Bubbles" by the Blues Horror Brigade is released publicly ...
